What?

RVAgreen 2050 is Richmond's initiative to fight climate change and create a more equitable, healthy, and resilient city for all.

Why?

Climate change is making Richmond's weather more dangerous, but it is not impacting all neighborhoods equally.

RVAgreen 2050 addresses extreme heat, storms, and flooding in an equitable way.

How?

RVAgreen 2050 centers seven cross-cutting COMMUNITY PRIORITIES: affordable housing, racial equity, safe and beautiful neighborhoods, community wealth, health and well-being, government accountability, and transparent communication.

For example, small upgrades like weatherization strips on windows and doors can help lower utility bills and improve indoor air quality. That means healthier homes and more money for things you care about!

What does YOUR community need to be more healthy and resilient?
